Dispute Between Germany And France Is Solved By Ambassador White's Plan.

THE FRENCH AND SPANISH POLICE

Eight Harbors Are To Be Under Joint Control, While The Bank Question Is Settled By Committee.

[Special to The Gazette.]

Algiers, March 28.—America, through Ambassador White, once more took a hand in the Moroccan conference for the sake of peace Tuesday, and as a direct consequence the congress of nations virtually is at an end. The delegates, including those of France and Germany, are in complete accord. The police and bank questions have been solved. All that remains is formal ratification by the governments involved of Ambassador White's plan, of which there is believed to be no doubt, and the arranging of unimportant details.

Ambassador White and the others of the American delegation were showered with compliments for what is regarded as their sagacious intervention. Austria's police proposal of Monday left the German and French delegates still occupying totally opposed positions relative to the police inspection.

Details of American Plan.

Mr. White and his colleagues drew up a fresh scheme, laying down the proposition that the inspector shall report simultaneously to both the sultan and the diplomatic corps at Tangier, the latter having authority to order inquiries into the working of the Franco-Spanish police scheme, thus guaranteeing the carrying-out of the decision of the conference and safeguarding foreign interests and commercial transactions. Before presenting this plan to the committee, Mr. White approached the principal delegates, who agreed as to the practicability of the idea, and consented to submit the scheme to their respective governments, whose concurrence they consider to be virtually certain.

France gains material advantages in both the police and bank questions. All the eight harbors are to be policed by French and Spanish officers. The decision in the bank question by the committee which considered the problem Monday was that France shall receive three shares instead of five, but retains control of the customs, which Germany had been desirous of wresting from her. Germany, on her side, gave up her claim to a second share.

Time to Settle Up.
It is possible the delegates will remain in Algiers a week more settling up small and necessary details, drawing up the agreement, discussing the repatriation of the ports and the partition of the bank interests, and finally drawing up the document which will inform the Sultan what has been done collectively and pressing upon him the findings of the conference.

As a result of the conference the claims of France regarding the police and her preponderance in the bank have been recognized by the majority of the powers. But there is not the slightest disposition among the French delegates for any trumpet blowing by the French press.

On the contrary, they much prefer to let the thing stand on its own merits. They have asked the French correspondents to observe modesty of language and avoid hurting German sentiments in every way possible.

Later, Ambassador White said: "Everything is satisfactory. Knowing that a solution was necessary to both France and Germany, I brought the adversaries together and compelled them to explain their differences. I rejoice that a representative of the United States was enabled to assist in the attainment of a settlement of the controversy."

HOODLUM STUDENTS PLAYED MAD PRANKS

Disgraceful Scenes Enacted at the University by Crazy Students
Last Night.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 28.—The announcement of the action of the faculty committee on football, in favor of the adoption of the western intercollegiate faculty conference reforms and the abolition of football and the restriction of all other university athletics to a self-supporting basis, roused the student body to a frenzy of indignation. The faculty committee took its action Monday, but attempted to conceal its meeting and the results until the arrival of President Van Hise from the west, for it was learned that the president had a compromise plan to maintain reformed football without scheduling any intercollegiate championship games. The action of the faculty committee, however, became known and early Tuesday evening the shooting of guns by students in front of the university gymnasium soon collected a crowd of some 600. A speech was made reporting the action of the faculty committee. This faculty body declared in favor of adopting the reforms of football proposed by the conference in Chicago, but also decided to report in favor of going farther and of eliminating football entirely at the University of Wisconsin for the coming season. It was also settled to report to the entire faculty in favor of requiring each branch of sports to "sit on its own financial bottom" and be conducted on such a scale as to pay all its own expenses and not lean on football for support as has been the custom for many years in the past. The suggestion was made that the crews be maintained by student and alumni subscription. The crews have resulted in an annual drain of $5,000 on the profits accrued from football. Baseball and track work usually takes some $3,000 more. This action resulted in a great student indignation demonstration, in which a great bonfire, shooting of guns, burning of faculty members in effigy and the ringing of the university fire alarm were features. A freshman, Paul F. Pettigrew of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, nephew of ex-Senator Pettigrew, was arrested for accelerating the disturbance.

CANINE SMUGGLERS AT WORK IN EUROPE

Dogs Taught to Carry Dutiable Goods
Across Borders—Lace Under False Hair.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Brussels, March 28.—The official organ of the Belgium customs department mentions the death of a notorious smuggler's dog which earned for his master a modest competence. The latter at first made frequent innocent trips with his big rough-coated companion across the frontier, until the customs officers had become quite friendly with him. Then his time for action came. He shaved the dog, wound costly lace tightly around its body, and put over this a skin closely resembling the dog's own. For five years the dog almost daily trotted with a valuable hidden burden of lace across the border into French territory, and probably the fraud would still be going on had the secret not been betrayed by an acquaintance. The faithful dog came to an untimely end by a revolver bullet. Dogs are often used, it appears, to run with dutiable goods across the frontier. This they are taught to do by a course of training which includes sound beatings at regular intervals by men dressed as customs officials, so that the poor animals run away terror-stricken from the sight of a uniform.

Berlin, March 28.—Professor Olszewski, of Cracow, has informed the academy of sciences of that city that he has succeeded in producing the greatest cold that has ever been created artificially. The Polish savant has experimented for years with reducing gases to liquids, but until now has failed to convert helium. By employing solid hydrogen, under a pressure of 180 atmospheres, a temperature of minus 259 degrees was attained, which further sank when the pressure was suddenly released to minus 271.3 degrees. This latter figure is only 1.7 degrees over what is known as absolutely zero, the temperature which is theoretically supposed to prevail in interplanetary space.

SPIRITED ARKANSAS FIGHT ENDS TODAY

Politicians Have Used Fists in Campaign—Erratic Genius in the Thicket.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Little Rock, Ark., March 28.—The democratic state primary is being held throughout Arkansas today on nominations for all important state offices from governor down. The campaign has been one of the most exciting in the history of the state, many bitter words being passed on the stump. A United States senator is to be chosen to succeed James H. Berry, who is a candidate for reelection. He is opposed by Governor Jeff Davis, one of the most picturesque figures that ever entered Arkansas politics. By his vagaries and his passionate outbursts Governor Davis has come in for much criticism and ridicule, but at the same time he has won many staunch supporters throughout the state because of his anti-trust fight and other policies. Although he has committed many errors, he is the only man ever elected governor of his state three times in succession. Senator Berry was a distinguished confederate general, served as governor and has had three terms in the senate. While Governor Davis has been rushing through the state challenging him from every stump for a joint debate, Senator Berry has pursued a dignified campaign and avoided any controversy with him.

For governor the candidates are

Congressman John L. Little and Robert L. Rogers, attorney general of the state. Rogers and Governor Davis are antagonistic, and in the fight Davis has waged against Rogers, the two have come to blows upon the platform.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Austin, Texas, March 28.—With no available auditorium large enough and kept out of the regular playhouses by the theatrical trust, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt and her company of French players are to present Camille in Austin tonight under the regulation circus canvas. This is the third time the famous French tragedienne has ever played under a "white top" and it will probably be the last time as arrangements of some sort or another have been effected in the other cities of the southwest in which she is booked, whereby the use of a hall or auditorium has been secured where the regular theatres were not to be had. The fact that the tent has been pitched within the shadow of the state capitol is being widely commented upon as the Texas legislature now in session has been exceedingly active in fighting the trusts. Visitors are in the city from all the surrounding country and the sale of tickets indicates that the big canvas will be as well filled with spectators as when the "biggest show on earth" is in town.

ATLANTA WELCOMES THE BLUE AND GRAY

Reunion of Men Who Fought on Different Sides of the Great Civil

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Atlanta, Ga., March 28.—With fluttering flags and martial music, the gates of Atlanta were thrown open today to greet the delegates and visitors to the third national reunion of the blue and the gray, which was organized at the St. Louis fair in 1904. Each arriving train during the past twenty-four hours has brought its quota of visitors, and it was early seen that the number in attendance would greatly exceed all expectations. The gathering was formally called to order this morning by General Julian S. Carr of North Carolina. The veterans were cordially welcomed by Governor Terrell on behalf of the state and Mayor Woodward speaking for the city. The opening prayer was by Bishop Gallor of Tennessee. Greetings were exchanged by prominent veterans of the north and south, the speakers including General J. B. Polley of Texas, General R. B. Snowden of Tennessee, Commander Francis B. Allen of Connecticut, Major John C. Koster of New York, General W. D. Cameron of Mississippi, Judge O. S. Deming of Kentucky, General Edwin S. Greeley of Connecticut, Major F. B. Dixon of North Carolina, Col. R. M. Green of California, Capt. J. T. Griffith of Virginia, Major Edward Buford of Tennessee and General J. R. Vary of Arkansas. # MAY ARBITRATE COAL QUESTION

Suggestion That Commission Decide Matter Is Greeted By Great Cheers.

BOTH SIDES REMAIN STUBBORN

Operators And Mine Workers Stick To Their Original
Propositions Without Showing Any Wavering
From Plan.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 28.—The final scenes in the long conference between the bituminous operators and the miners began yesterday afternoon, when, in the open convention, the question of a great coal strike was brought up for its last hearing.

To all appearances the efforts of President Roosevelt to avert the big industrial conflict have failed. Both sides openly held their positions to be unalterable. The die has not yet been cast for the strike, but, unless all signs fail, the conference will adjourn finally today.

Que ray of hope appears. This is a plan to follow the course taken in the great anthracite strike of 1902 and leave the whole dispute to a commission, to be appointed by President Roosevelt, for settlement.

The idea is gaining supporters hourly. Twice in the convention it was advocated by the operators and greeted with applause. The miners either are opposing it frankly or refuse to discuss arbitration.

It is not at all certain that the strike, if called, will involve all of the big bituminous fields. The miners showed clearly by their attitude in the meeting that they are divided on the policy of permitting the mines of western Pennsylvania, controlled by Francis L. Robbins, to operate.

Robbins offered to grant the increase asked and demanded the right to run his mines. He was hailed by the miners as their benefactor and friend.

Lewis Opposes Mitchell.

If President Mitchell advocates this course, which is not certain, he will find opposed to him Vice President T. B. Lewis and that wing of the United Mineworkers which is following his leadership. The old fight between Mitchell and Lewis was reopened yesterday, and Lewis served notice he will block such an arrangement.

That peace can be brought about in the mining fields of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, or, in the less important bituminous districts, admitted, is hopeless. Through three long hours in Tomlinson hall yesterday afternoon, nearly 4,000 miners, operators and commercial representatives from all over the country sat, anxiously waiting for an operator or miner to display some sign of weakening. There was not the slightest indication of a change from the stands either side has held day after day in the joint-scale committee meetings.

The operators, one after another, in direct, forceful speeches, stated their reasons for refusing to grant the increase asked by the miners. Following their employers, the miner officials each, in turn, from President Mitchell down, voiced his sentiment. All reiterated flatly their demands for the restoration of the 1903 scale. They said they would not accept a penny less.

Arguments by Both Sides.

In substance, the operators gave the following reasons:

That the general prosperity which has swept the country has not affected the coal industry.

That coal is selling for less to-day than one year ago.

That the unfair competitive regulations have operated to the advantage of Pennsylvania and to the disadvantage of the other bituminous states.

That the shot fires' law of Illinois has added greatly to the expense of mining.

That the miners' wages already are high and there is no evidence of suffering among their families.

On the other hand, these arguments of the miners were presented to justify the demands:

That the iron and steel industries are prosperous, and these constitute the barometer of the coal trade.

That the reduction of two years ago was expedient and only was accepted in the interests of peace.

That the miners' wages to-day average less than $5.00 a year.

SENATOR KNOX SPEAKS ON THE RAILROAD RATE BILL

Pennsylvania Senator Endorses The Measure
In The Senate Chamber This Afternoon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, March 28.—When the senate met today the railroad rate bill was taken up and Senator Knox presented his views. The house adopted a special rule introduced by Tawney yesterday providing for the elimination of points of order against the legislative appropriation bill.

At the outset Mr. Knox said he agreed with senators who had contended that the power to fix railroad tolls for transportation is a legislative power, and that when the legislature has laid down a rule for the establishment of rates the application of such rule to specific cases is a matter of administration, which may be delegated to a commission; and that the power to investigate the reasonableness of a proposed rate, and to fix a rate for future observance is a nonjudicial power which cannot be conferred upon courts exercising the judicial power of the United States.

Mr. Knox then set forth, by general citations from supreme court decisions the powers and duties the interstate commerce commission now possess and perform under the act to regulate commerce, and he declared that his review showed that the commission has abundant power to seek and discover deviations from the great purpose of the act to secure equality of right for all, but it wholly lacks power to enforce its orders and decrees, and that its orders and decrees do not have the force of law until made so by judicial decree. After reciting a portion of the President's message calling attention to the advisability of expanding the powers of the commission, the senator referred to some of his (Mr. Knox) former utterances and reiterated that the efforts of the government to check this concentration of power under the provisions of existing laws should be supplemented by legislation which will prevent the abuse of the power of taxing the movement of persons and property under any form of concentration or under any circumstance whatever, and that a short and simple law would reach the root of the trouble. He reviewed his publicly expressed ideas, which tentative suggestions, he said, were elaborated in the bill he introduced several weeks ago. He declared his bill comprehends and deals with the mischiefs for which congress is seeking a remedy more effectually than any measure yet brought to the attention of congress.

The purpose of the Knox bill was explained briefly by its author. Mr. Knox said the theory on which it was drawn is that general words in a statute, which are sufficiently comprehensive to cover the evil aimed at make better and more effective legislation than specific prohibition of the evil in the forms in which it has appeared. The recent decision of the supreme court in the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad coal cases construing the general words of prohibition against discrimination in the Elkins act, and the decision in the Northern Securities case construing the general words of prohibition in the Sherman act, he said, confirm the wisdom of this method of legislation.

Discussing the differences which thus far have prevented any agreement between the two factions, one demanding and other a specific provision for a court review, Mr. Knox said: "But for the seriousness of the situation the matter would be most ludicrous. Both sides agree that the right should exist; one holds that it is in the bill or exists independently of it; the other it is not in the bill but should be, and yet the former, for some mysterious and unaccountable reason, objects to an amendment which would place the matter beyond doubt."

"When we consider that the people are asking for prompt, decisive and effective action; that the present bill distinctly contemplates a review; that its constitutionality is seriously threatened by failure to provide for such review if the other features are to stand; that precedents of state legislation are in favor of a review; that all the bills presented in either house

The Pure Food Roll of Honor.

"Good Housekeeping," a well known household magazine, voluntarily made a thorough examination of a test of house-hold products and placed it without reservation upon a roll of honor.
In the March number of Good Housekeeping in the department of "Pure Food Assurance" we find:
"None-Such makes meat, Merrill-Souls Co. Syrup, a sample of house-hold products, bottled apple, pines, sweet raisins, currants, boiled corn, and salt, without other preservatives or adulterants, no artificial coloring, produced under conditions assuring the highest perfection as possible."
This guarantee, which could not be bought at any price, ought to satisfy the most particular housewife. The sale of one million packages a month seems to prove the statement to be true. Your career sells None-Such. Try it, and satisfy yourself. You are the one.

PLANS LAID FOR A LADIES' NIGHT

SOCIAL UNION CLUB MEETING HELD LAST EVENING.

LOCAL INDUSTRIES TALKED

Processes of Manufacture Explained — Amusing Readings by John Gredler of Waukesha.

Deviating from their accustomed course the Social Union club will this year close their series of banquets with a "ladies' night." The decision was made at the March meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last evening and on motion George A. Jacobs, who acted as leader, appointed a committee to take complete charge of the arrangements. The members are J. L. Hay, J. H. Jones, George Drummold, Dr. Wolcott and Henry Hanson. The date, which has not yet been settled upon, will come in the latter part of April.

Industrial Janesville.
Janesville's Industries was the topic of last evening's meeting and the program proved most interesting for each speaker was thoroughly acquainted with his subject. Walter Helms, formerly chief agriculturist for the Rock County Sugar company, and speaking for that enterprise, enumerated the benefits of such a factory. The farmers were given another paying crop which could be raised profitably on a small scale, and benefited the land because the production demanded intensive methods; the city was given a large volume of trade and during the run between 300 and 400 men were employed while a smaller force was hired the year around. He described the process of making sugar and of drying pulp. This pulp dryer is one of three in the United States. Mr. F. F. Lewis asked concerning the new scheme of drying cotton, and in reply Mr. Helms stated that though the process promised much its success must yet be demonstrated. Should that method be used here drying stations would probably be built at Edgerton, Milton or Milton Junction and Footville or Hanover.

Janesville Corn Planter.
H. M. Craig spoke for the Janesville Machine company. He said that through a competent experimental force and by each salesman and jobber acting as spy on the trade, seeking where an improvement was needed, the local farm implement manufacturing kept pace with the times. The great benefit of machinery was to reduce the cost of labor and now plows could turn twenty furrows at a time where formerly the single share was used. Nearly every farmer owned a two-share plow. The same was true of the cultivator and planter, which have superseded hand tools and now cultivate or plant two rows at a time. A fertilizing attachment had been invented for the planter and is used. Experiments had been made in three-row planters, but the machines proved impracticable. In the Janesville Corn Planter nearly perfect results are reached, for fields are planted, two rows at a time, three kernels of corn to a hill, at a great saving of money formerly paid for labor, while trial tests showed that $5.00 was saved per acre in seed alone. In place of music on the program of last evening, John Gredler of Waukesha delivered a few readings. His impersonations were exceptionally good and applause compelled him to give encores after both regular selections.

Fortunes in Sand Hills.
A. M. Fisher of the Janesville Granite Brick & Stone company appeared for that concern. He said that in building this factory here the location and demand were considered. Railroad facilities were good and the principal material, sand, was found in abundant quantities and of excellent quality, while only a small amount of time was imported. The industry was but five years old in America, but the sand-lime brick had met with favorable reception on all sides because of its great crushing strength, small absorption test, its appearance and its cost. The high percentage of silica in the sand makes the local product peerless on the market and the factory here will when running regularly bring between $40,000 and $50,000 into the city annually. Mr. West of Milwaukee, a veteran fire insurance man, who is the guest of A. A. Jackson, was called on to talk for concrete-block making. The growth of Portland cement products has been marvelous, he said, and among the most important of these is the cement block. These are as cheap as clay bricks, are both heat and fire proof. Under the action of heat and water they explode and iron and steel constructions warp. But there is no way of inspecting cement products and so there is only the integrity of the maker to rely on. He considered the wet process of making blocks superior to the dry. The sand hills here, Mr. West believed, were among the richest of deposits and the concrete stone and sand-lime brick industries should become among the most important in the city.

Underwear and Cotton Products.
Underwear made at the Lewis Knitting company's mills here was spoken of by A. J. Harwood, an employee. The knitting of goods by machinery dated back to 1559, he said, and though much progress has been made in the industry the inventions were in the main only improvements over the old crude and slow machines. The open elastic mesh, which is made nowhere else than in Janesville, comes from a machine invented and perfected by F. F. Lewis. The motto of the local mill was quality above quantity, which is just the opposite to the rule in the east, where the knitting industry is most extensive, and the Lewis company has taken the majority of high awards in all international exhibitions, while at St. Louis all were received. The demand for Lewis underwear is increasing and it has been necessary to build a three-story addition to the factory. Recently two good-sized orders have been received from Alaska. Arthur Baumann spoke for the Rock-River Cotton company. The manufacturers are cotton bating, wrapping twine and mattresses, while the company jobs extensively in paper. The raw material comes from the south through the St. Louis Exchange and machinery is made almost solely in Lowell, Mass. The process of manufacture, he said, was very complicated and instead of going into a detailed explanation he extended to all an invitation to visit the mill. The bating output is the largest of the different products and last year three million rolls were made, which would fill somewhere near 750,000 comfortable, or cover half of Wisconsin with a layer of cotton two inches thick. This and wrapping twine goes to every state west of the Alleghenies and north of the Ohio river. In 1905 497,993 miles of string were made, or enough to encircle the world sixteen times. Manufacturers of mattresses and jobs of paper are numerous and so these two products are sold only to towns within about a hundred mile radius. The company has been situated here sixteen years and is growing gradually. Its shipments are mostly local, but carload lots are sent almost regularly to the Pacific coast. Eighty hands, mostly girls, are employed the year around.

Canned Foods and Pens.
R. H. Beilharz represented the P. Hohenadel, Jr., packing company. He explained very graphically the processes of canning corn, making sauer kraut and preparing pickles. Last season 60,000 bushels of cucumbers were prepared for the market and 80,000 cases (a dozen cans to the case) of corn were packed. Fourteen million cases of corn were packed in the United States last season and of this 340,000 were put up in Wisconsin. Thus the Janesville production forms a sixth of that from Wisconsin. The use of hermetically sealed cans dates back to 1815 and now a newly-invented machine is being tried which packs the corn, cooks it and places it in cases of two dozen each. Edward Butterfield of the Parker Pen company told how lucky curve fountain pens were made. He explained the construction of the barrel and cap and the manner of putting the different parts together and invited those present to try how this work was done. Mr. Butterfield was asked concerning the recently invented material of milk which may replace hard rubber in the barrel and cap. Though some pens had been made of this substance here the material has not yet been proven a successful substitute.

WILD ANIMALS THAT ARE VERY EXPENSIVE

Why the Denizens of the Jungles Cost So Much Money—Heavy Expenses.

People sometimes wonder at the immense prices put upon wild animals. The jungles of India and the wilds of Africa are full of wild animals, they argue. It is only necessary to trap them and bring them home. Why, then, should a giraffe cost $10,000, and a rhinoceros $15,000, or more? Most of the wild animals on exhibition the world over come from Africa, and are trapped behind the Zambesi, which means a toilsome journey of two thousand miles before a start is made. The man in charge of a trapping expedition must be experienced, must know the country, the language, and must be something of a doctor in the bargain. He takes fearful risks, especially from fever, and must be proportionately paid. Ringling Brothers, have in their employ two African trappers, who all $75 a week the year around, and all $75 a week the year around, and all $75 a week the year around.

Native carriers must be hired by the score. They know their way and insist on proportionate pay. Each carries fifty pounds and the charge on such a load, merely from the coast up to the great lakes, is fifty cents to seventy-five cents a pound. Big amounts of stores are a necessity, for not only must guns, ammunition, traps, tinned goods, groceries, portable boats and medical comforts be taken, but a large amount of cloth, needles and beads to pay the natives for their supplies and information. That terrible insect, the tsetse fly is another indirect expense to the African travelers. The creature, whose bite is fatal to horses, mules and oxen, makes human transportation the only means of getting goods up to the interior. The two most difficult of all wild creatures to capture and get to the coast are the giraffe and zebra. The latter can only be caught in high, barren hills, and with the utmost difficulty, because of shyness, while the giraffe is practically extinct. The four zebras brought to Baraboo, Wis., this winter for Ringling Brothers were the only ones left out of sixteen caught. The giraffe is as tender as a baby, and has a heart-breaking way of dying, suddenly, by Ringling Brothers would not part with the three they own for any price. They are cared for like royalty, and transported in padded cages.

Even when the animals are at the port of shipment the troubles are far from over. Tropical beasts must be slowly and gradually hardened to the change of climate. Huge stores-houses are fitted so as to protect the beasts from a sudden change of climate. The temperature of the lion's cage is slowly lowered by means of ice. Other sensitive animals are acclimated in a similar fashion. The buildings cost a good sum in themselves and forty or fifty thousand dollars a year in wages and keep. Then comes the tremendous cost and care to land the beasts in America, and then the long journey inland, probably with winter weather, to fear. These facts indicate that the market prices for wild beasts are not excessive.

and the "kid," as he is called, this spring. The Bland, black yak, wart hog and ossowary are all expensive wild animals, but some animals are practically priceless; these include the African gorilla and Kodiak bear.

LINK AND PIN... News for the Railroad Men.

Favorable action was taken by the Senate of New Jersey on the Wakeles bill, permitting electric railway companies to carry freight and the measure is now before the House.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature of Maryland to limit the working time of block signal operators to eight hours a day.

A press despatch says that the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha is to run its trains into the union station of the Union Pacific and turn its present passenger station into a freight house.

Persons walking on railroad trestles on which the public are warned by posted notice not to walk, are trespassers according to a decision of the Kentucky Court of Appeals (Smith vs. Illinois Central Railroad Company, 90' Southwestern Rep. 254). The railroad company owes them no duty beyond being merely bound to exercise ordinary diligence, after actual discovery of their presence, not to injure them.

The International Railway Company of Buffalo and the Toronto Railway Company are planning to erect a bridge across the Niagara river below Niagara Falls. It will be used exclusively for electric railway purposes.

Last year was a record-breaker for the zinc and lead industry in southwestern Missouri. The total value of the output was $13,302,300, consisting of 325,435 tons of zinc and 31,619 tons of lead.

FROM WAUKEGAN ON HONEYMOON JOURNEY

Roy Shumway and Elizabeth Gannon Were Secretly Married in Illinois City Before Coming to Janesville to Reside.

Romance has spun its golden web about the young couple who so quietly and unobtrusively took possession of the Allie Razook confectionery store on Milwaukee street this week. Waukegan, Ill., was the scene of the secret wedding, last Friday, the time, Father Verheulen, the officiating clergyman, and Roy Shumway and Miss Elizabeth Gannon, the principals. One more character must needs be mentioned—the sister who, arrived from Chicago a day or two afterward and made inquiry for the then Mrs. Shumway, stating that the latter had left home on the pretext of securing some apparel which she had left behind when she relinquished a position which she had held in Waukegan. When told that the one she searched for was married and had gone to Janesville, the Chicago sister refused to believe until after the records at the courthouse presented evidence which she could not doubt. Astonished beyond measure she refused for a long time to be reconciled.

HOSPITALITY WAS SEVERELY TAXED

Mrs. J. F. Turnbull Gives Another Version of the Story of Visiting Relative Asked To Pay Board.

There are two sides to every story of domestic unpleasantness and the one purporting to come from Mrs. Clara E. Slawson of Denver, Colorado, in which she is made to assert that Janesville relatives, after she had been their invited guest for two weeks, presented a board bill and refused to allow her to take her trunk away until she had settled, is a glaring misrepresentation of the facts according to the hostess, Mrs. Slawson is the daughter of the stepfather of Mrs. J. F. Turnbull, who resides on Mineral Point avenue. With the exception of a few days spent with a half sister in the country, she appears to have been a visitor at the Turnbull home since Jan. 29. Though she came uninvited and tarried long on the pretext that she was waiting for the Denver man to come and marry her, Mrs. Turnbull says that she was very welcome and was repeatedly so assured until recently when certain unpleasant things she was credited with saying came to light. Three weeks ago Mrs. Turnbull was taken very ill and Mrs. Mary Raun was called in to take care of her. Mrs. Slawson complained because she had not been called upon to act as nurse and resented Miss Raun's coming. But she continued to linger until a Saturday when the latter was suddenly called away. Then, when she might have been of some service, she likewise took her departure. Last Saturday, after Miss Raun had returned, she also came back and made the members of the family miserable by repeatedly questioning them as to whether she ought to stay or not. One or two assurances that she was welcome did not seem to suffice. On several occasions she had insisted on paying for her board during a part of the period she had been a guest at the home and when she suddenly took her departure this week without even saying goodbye to Mrs. Turnbull or giving the much-desired explanation of certain unkind things she was reported to have said about the people who had entertained her, and sent a drayman for her trunk, word reached her from Mrs. Turnbull that the latter wished to see her and that if she couldn't come she had better pay the board before taking away her belongings. Straightway Mrs. Slawson went to Justice Reeder and secured a restraining order at the same time relating a harrowing tale of the kind of hospitality dispensed by relatives in Janesville. The trunk was surrendered on demand and thus the episode ended.

WILLIE HOPPE WINS HIS BILLIARD MATCH

Defeats George Slosson for the World's Championship in New York Last Night.

Willie Hoppe, the 19-year-old champion billiard player of the world at 15.1 balk line, successfully defended the title which he won from Vignaux in Paris three months ago, by defeating George Slosson in New York. The final score was 500 to 392. In addition to retaining the championship trophy, Hoppe won a side bet of $500 and the net gate receipts which will amount to over $5,000. Most of the well known amateur and professional billiard players of the eastern states saw the game which from the outset was disappointing, as neither of the contestants played up to the form which they showed in their practice exhibitions. Never before had such a large gathering assembled to see a match here. The seating room of the big hall in Grand Central palace, estimated at 2,100 was filled quickly and standing room was at a premium. Summary.

Hoppe, total, 500; average, 10 40-46; high runs, 50, 45, 42.
Slosson, total, 392; average, 8 32-45; high runs, 61, 32, 30.
Time of game, 3:30.
Devotees of the "gentleman's game" are on edge in anticipation of the world's championship billiard match between George Slosson, "the student," and Willie Hoppe, the "boy wonder." The contest was played at Madison Square Garden concert hall last night and it was the first championship match played in this country since 1901, when Schaeffer won the title.

For weeks past the two players had been getting into condition for the championship contest and the practice work showed each was in splendid form. Both the veteran and the youngster had a host of ardent admirers, who were willing to bet on the success of their favorite and a great amount of money it is said was changed hands on the result of the game. It is a significant fact, however, that the professional experts, almost without exception, picked Hoppe to win. This had led to the boy being made a favorite in the betting at odds of ten to eight.

The contest was a five hundred point game for $500 a side, and the championship emblem, which Hoppe won from Vignaux in Paris. The match will be at eighteen-inch balk line, one shot in.

The match had attracted more than the usual amount of interest which centers in a championship contest, which fact was due largely to the disparity in the ages of the contestants and their years of experience. Hoppe is still under twenty years of age, while Slosson is over fifty. The latter had taken part in more than fifty matches and tournaments. It was in October, 1870, that he made his first appearance in public. He was beaten by a player named Dennis at the old four-ball game. Through all the ensuing transitions of the game he has held his own, keeping up his end at straight rail, the champion's game, cushion caroms and the different balk line distances. His last big contest was in the 18.2 championship in Paris in 1900, when he finished last to Cure, Sutton and Vignaux. An ocean trip and poor health upset him in that tourney. He won the 18.2 championship title from Schaeffer, Vignaux and Sutton in 1897, and tied with Daniel for second money in the 18.2 tourney in 1901.

Hoppe made his formal debut in public less than five years ago at Daly's academy in New York City. It was a handicap affair of 18.2, the other players being Orlando Morningstar, Tom Gallagher, Edward McLaughlin and Ortiz, the Spaniard. The handicaps were Hoppe, 200 points; Gallagher, McLaughlin and Morningstar, 300 each, and Ortiz, 225. Hoppe won all four of his games and did not suffer defeat. In the brief space of five years he has so advanced in billiard proficiency that to men from whom he accepted odds he can give odds. In 1904, in Paris, Hoppe won the championship of the "young masters" at the 18.2 game, defeating every one of his rivals. Barring an exhibition in which he defeated Albert Cutler of Boston and a tour with Schaeffer, he did not public playing again until January 15, last, when he jumped to the championship by defeating Vignaux, the celebrated French champion.

The first world's championship at the 15.1 style of play was decided in the Madison Square Garden concert hall, from November 20 to December 4, 1897, the games being of 500 points. Slosson, with a grand average of 9.39 and a high run of 97, was returned the winner, with four victories to his credit. Schaeffer was second, with three games won, his grand average being 9.29 and his high run 85. Frank C. Ives was third, with two games won. His high run was 140, best single average 9.025, and grand average 14.85. Maurice Daly was fourth with one victory, a grand average of 7.18 and a high run of 73. George Sutton did not win a game.

The second world's championship at 15.1 was played in the same place from December 2 to 10, 1901. It was the public debut of Leon Barutel, Ora Morningstar and Leonard Howison in first class competition. The games were 500 points each, and Schaeffer was the victor of the tournament. He won five games, had a high run of 78 and made a grand average of 7.78. Slosson was second with three victories, a high run of 45, and a grand average of 7.38. Barutel was third, with three games won, a high run of 42, and a grand average of 6.19. Sutton won two games, Morningstar and Howison one each. Schaeffer and Slosson played the first individual championship at the 18.1 game at the Madison Square Garden concert hall February 5, 1898. Schaeffer won by 600 to 550. The winner's average was 7.41 and high run 76. Slosson's high run was 24. In April of the same year, at Chicago, Frank C. Ives defeated Schaeffer by a score of 600 to 426. Ives' average was 15 and high run 91. This was the last contest at the 18.1 game until the tournament of 1901, and then came the match in Paris in 1904 between Vignaux and Slosson, which Vignaux won, 500 to 387. The next competition was between Vignaux and Hoppe last January, and was won by Hoppe.

INTERURBAN STORES MANY MONTHS' COAL

Seven Hundred Tons Are Now Stored at Beloit for Possible Strike Use.

In preparation for the coming coal strike, the Rockford, Beloit & Janesville electric road is storing coal near its tracks in South Beloit in order to be supplied should the strike become serious. The company has already stored enough of the fuel to last them for about seventy days, and the amount which is on its way to the yard, having been ordered by the company, will add enough to the supply to last them for at least three months. Seven hundred tons are already in storage at the power-house and two hundred more tons are expected within a few days.

EATEN OUT OF HOUSE AND HOME

How a Confirmed Dyspeptic Developed an Appetite Like a Corn-husker's and Cleaned Out Every thing in Sight.

The wife of a leading druggist at Des Moines tells how her brother was changed from a dyspeptic without appetite to a prodigious eater. "My brother, who is a lawyer in Chicago, came to visit me and I hardly knew him on his arrival he was so thin and run down. I had not seen him for years and was much alarmed at his appearance. He told me not to worry as he had been in this condition for years as a result of chronic dyspepsia. I asked him what he had done for it, and he said he had done everything—taken every remedy he had ever heard of and consulted doctors without number, none of them helped him. I asked him if he ever took Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and he said he hadn't and what was more he wouldn't. He had sworn off taking medicine of any kind.

"I had my husband bring home a box from the store and I actually made him take one or two of the tablets after he had eaten. They made him feel so much better that he offered no further objection. He had not taken the one box before he was greatly improved and three or four boxes cured him of dyspepsia and gave him a wonderful appetite. He came near eating us out of house and home. My, but it did me good to see him eat. He gained fifteen pounds before he returned home, and he writes me that he has not been troubled with dyspepsia since then.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned to them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of their work of digestive action. Their component parts are identical with those of the digestive fluids secreted by the stomach, and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work just the same as a good strong, healthy stomach would do it. On this account Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are perfectly natural in their action and effects. They do not cause any unnatural or violent disturbance in the stomach or bowels. They themselves digest the food and supply the system with all the nourishment contained in what is eaten and vary out Nature's plans for the sustenance and maintenance of the body. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, by thus relieving the stomach of its work, enable it to recuperate and regain its normal health and strength. Nature repairs the worn and wasted tissues just as she heals and knits the bone of a broken limb, which is of course not used during the process of repair. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists at 50 cents a box. One box will frequently effect a perfect cure.

Chicago is preparing to fight that saloon license question all over again.

Is Governor Davidson trying to build up a machine all for his own use after all?

Senator Spooner's speech on the rate bill has met with universal approbation.

Politics makes queer bed fellows. Examine for yourself and see what is meant by this.

Those coal miners and operators are apparently working at cross purposes all the time.

Congress has so many important matters to attend to this session that some of them will be neglected.

New Orleans seeks to become the natural outlet of all the great Mississippi Valley for the Latin-American states.

When voting on Tuesday cast your vote for the entire republican city ticket. They are all good men and deserve your support.

Queer reasons are given for the support of this or that candidate. Every voter should draw his own inferences in the matter.

State politics have taken a slump just at present and will soon be brought to par by bulling the market with candidates.

President Roosevelt has urged congress to pass a memorial to save Niagara Falls from commercialism. Good for Roosevelt!

Republicans have nominated good men for aldermen in all the wards in the city but the fifth and they should be remembered.

In the stress of the judicial fight for circuit judges do not fail to remember that there is a judge to be elected for the Beloit court and cast your ballot for C. D. Rosa.

Hoodlums who come from neighboring community and terrorize citizens in public places should be served a good lesson and not be protected by friends.

Spring is here in name but not in fact. Wait until the trees begin to bud before taking off those winter flannels and then be ready for a freeze-up.

A saloon campaign in local municipal politics is all right and expected.

even if the church people do not know it, but in a judicial campaign is out of place as Judge Grimm may find out to his sorrow.

Judge Becker says he is going to be elected. Judge Grimm is sure he will be the next circuit judge. Judge Sale's friends claim his election, and to be sure the voter should cast his ballot for Judge Dunwiddie and be certain he is having something to do with the election himself.

When a man does something bad enough to be brought into court and fined he has no right to ask the newspapers not to publish his name because it might hurt his wife or family. The wife and family should be thought of first, before he was taken to court.

Green county appears to have made up its mind to vote for Dunwiddie and Becker. In Jefferson it is Dunwiddie and Grimm and in Rock, Grimm, Dunwiddie and Sale. From this outlook Dunwiddie appears to have the best showing if properly supported at home.

CAMPAIGN LITERATURE.

One expects campaign literature to be full of facts, statements of facts, and alleged facts. Often times men's names are placed upon nomination papers by mistake. Often times enthusiasts place the names of departed brethren upon them or men who have left the community. This is true in the crowded, "colonized" districts of Chicago and New York, but one would scarcely think to find it in an enlightened community where the necessity for such nefarious political methods are not supposed to exist.

THE MOROCCAN DIFFICULTY.

It is difficult to believe that the latest plan for policing Morocco was suggested by the American representative at the Algiers conference. Mixed control for Tangier and Mogador, and the remaining six ports to be divided equally between France and Spain, with an Austrian inspection officer reporting to the diplomatic corps at Tangier, means a step back from the last proposals. In those France and Spain were to have unfettered control of all but one port, and this one not so important as Tangier or Mogador. As a settlement the proposal is childish and concedes in principle a fact every demand to Germany.

The form in which the cable intelligence comes, leaves very little doubt that the proposal is put out to test American sentiment in the matter. The best settlement of the Moroccan difficulty would be to hand over the policing of that country to France and Spain, the powers directly interested. It is becoming apparent that the last thing desired in some quarters is a settlement. Nothing, for instance, would still Germany better, having no case, than to keep the law open until such time as she felt strong enough, or belated France weak enough, to make further aggression safe.

Mixed tribunals and international police forces have invariably failed, because they were never meant to succeed. The arrangement of 1876 in Egypt for trial of the cases of foreigners before mixed tribunals, or their own consular courts, was a course of continual bickering between England and France, and their joint authority was the most serious impediment to that rehabilitation of Egypt which has made such wonderful strides under Lord Cromer. When England and France really wanted to get together their first step was to leave the protecting power in Egypt with a free hand in this and other matters. The international police arrangements in Crete are ineffective to the point of being ridiculous, but they keep the Cretan question open, which was really the object in view.

So long as the German emperor wishes to extend his influence there will be nothing like peace in Macedonia, or adequate protection for the Christian subjects of the Porte. Officials entrusted with the direction of this international police leave the sultan free to do what he chooses by spending their time quarreling amongst themselves. It would be interesting to have General Chiffre's opinion of "united" action by the powers in China.

His own force and the British got along well together because they really wanted an adjustment of the difficulty and were not concerned about developing new "spheres of influence." China is still a good deal of a problem, but decidedly less so than it was before the ascendancy of Japan was conclusively demonstrated. The latest proposals for peace in Morocco leave the whole question unsettled and in a position where Germany can bring on a crisis at any time she chooses. They are so unsatisfactory that they must necessarily fail to reassure foreign financial markets, at a time when Russian necessities make such tranquility imperative. It is to be hoped that our state department, even for the sake of terminating a conference which has already sat far too long, will not father an arrangement leaving the last state of the matter worse than the first.

UNJUST CRITICISM.

Attorneys who represent the coterie of lawyers who are seeking the election of Judge Sale, criticize the Gazette on the grounds that it is not making a bitter personal attack upon Judge Grimm or Jefferson, criticizing his methods of campaigning by means of the saloons and the votes he finds there. The old Bible saying from Matthew, seventh chapter, fifth verse: "First cast out the beam out of thine own eye, and then thou shalt see clearly to cast the mote out of thy brother's eye," might be applicable in answer to this charge. It is generally known that Judge Grimm is a German and is seeking German votes in the manner he is accustomed to. Jefferson county, where he has had his political training, is differently constituted from Rock county and what may perhaps look as out of place to the coterie of lawyers of Rock county would be considered nothing in Jefferson. The Gazette, however, does not believe in this sort of a campaign. As has been before stated, the judicial campaign should be conducted in an orderly manner, befitting the high office the candidates seek. Misrepresentation of facts, several instances of which have been denounced in communications to the Gazette, and befuddling the voter by juggling of figures and statements are out of place and if criticism was made where it belonged it might not please the coterie of men who seek to drive the circuit judgeship out of Rock county to vent a private spite.

THOUGHTS BY CARMEN SYLVA.

Genius is like the sun, it lends its light.

At night everything is aflame—the stars, our thoughts, our tears.

It has become the fashion to call ugliness truth, and coarseness honesty.

Without sympathy there is no truth; observation by the eyes alone is incomplete.

Why dwell so on ugliness when so much still remains to be said about the beautiful?

Great thinkers and lofty mountains raise those who contemplate them in their own esteem.

In art one has not merely to tell a truth, but the truth, and that is almost as hard as in life itself.

Those who lack readiness at repartee are sometimes credited with the desire to avoid giving offense.

It is crime on the part of an artist to communicate to others the hallucinations of his morbidly excited brain.

In a great crisis or even at a tragic moment we sometimes talk nonsense, just as the dog barks when he is afraid.

In the course of conversation one must change the solid gold of one's thoughts into countless pieces of such small coin that one invariably appears poor.

It is undeniable that monsters exist, but between making capital out of them in one's books, or simply exhibiting them for money at a fair, there does not seem to me to be much choice.

WISE REFLECTIONS.

Advice is as plentiful as good examples are scarce.

When one is driven to drink he usually has to walk back.

There are also sermons in bricks when they are coming your way.

It is man's nature to fall, but he sometimes fools people by refusing to do it.

An ideal political organization is one that blindly follows its leader, right or wrong.

If a man is prosperous he has no use for his friends; if he isn't they have no use for him.

The great trouble with things we get for nothing is that we generally have to pay the freight.

One-half a successful man's success may be due to good luck and the other half to good judgment.

Suspicious people are apt to lose confidence in a temperance speaker who sips water from a tin cup.

It is not until we get airships that the fellow who lives in an attic can expect his friends to look him up.

A woman never considers marriage a failure if her husband is willing to pay all her bills without a murmur.

It sometimes happens that an old bachelor loves little children although they probably fret him as much as grown people do.

SOME GEORGIA SAYINGS.

This old world is doing its best to roll on to the brighter day. It blazes beautifully on the path of the sun.

Though many will tell you this world is a field of trouble, there are mighty few that would refuse a gift of ten acres.

The way of the righteous is peace, but when he's sick he sends for the doctor just like ordinary mortals.

If life is but a fleeting show, we should all hasten to get front seats at the circus.—Atlanta Constitution.

Fast Voyage of Sailing Ships.

The British ship Thermopyla in 1858 made a wonderful voyage to Melbourne from London, which was speedier than most freight voyages of today. It accomplished it in sixty days, or an average for the trip of twelve knots an hour, and afterward came home from China in ninety-one days.

PRESS COMMENT.

Robins in Oshkosh, Already! Oshkosh Northwestern: The robins are here again with their merry warblings of spring.

We Won't Like The Taste. Marinette Eagle-Star: We have been eating adulterated stuff so long that perhaps nothing will taste natural when a pure food law is put in operation.

Stung, And Cankered. Milwaukee Sentinel: Your average socialist spouter seems to be a man who, being unprosperous himself, is stung and cankered by the sight of the prosperity of others.

Put Conservatively. Winnetoon Local: The spring weather the past week has been. But if nothing good can be said, say nothing at all. It is enough to state that boiling water would freeze before it had time to cool.

Most Confusing. Superior Telegram: This proposed pocket ballot seems to the Telegram to be the most confusing invention that has been suggested at any time as a means whereby the voters can register their will—much more difficult than the ballots now in use.

Scarcely Worth The Saving. Fond du Lac Bulletin: In Washington a kindly gentleman has announced that he will build a beautiful and expensive hospital for boys and men who have acquired the cigarette habit can be cured. The question is, is it worth while to cure a boy or man who has been so silly as to acquire a habit of that character? Are they worth curing?

Onomatopoeia. St. Louis Globe-Democrat: Words that are self-descriptive, like whizz, buzz and thump, are examples of what is given the awfully crushing name of onomatopoeia. A word that few can remember, especially the courage men and women who have acquired the cigarette habit can be cured. The question is, is it worth while to cure a boy or man who has been so silly as to acquire a habit of that character? Are they worth curing?

Great Men Have Been Erect. Outing: The first object of physical methods should be to straighten and expand the body. The world may, in a broad general way, be divided into two great classes—the erect and the incoherent, the strong and the weak. The "epoch" makers, the Cromwells, the Napoleons, the Wellingtons, the Washingtons and the Westons, have been men marked by a straight spine and a broad, high, deep chest. The mastered millions, the defeated ones, have been the incoherent.

Margaret Anglin's Chicago Reception. Chicago Chronicle (March 27): In her enactment of the title role of "Zola" in the Garrick theatre, last evening Margaret Anglin scored probably the most remarkable success achieved by any actress who has appeared on the stage of the theatre. At the close of the third act, an ovation such as rarely witnessed in a Chicago theatre greeted the player, who, despite the weariness attendant upon a long strain of an act in which the ability of an actress would be put to a supreme test, was compelled to appear again and again to bow her thanks. A clamor of approval strange to the ears of theatre goers brought the company to the footlights many times and the appearance of Miss Anglin each time renewed the volume of applause and waving of handkerchiefs and proved indubitably that the actress had recorded an event in Chicago theatrical history. The triumph of the actress is more remarkable in view of the undeniable weakness and melodramatic construction of the play.

Too Much Tinkering Already. Marinette Eagle-Star: We have no hesitancy in saying that we believe the adoption of this law and the pocket ballot law which accompanies it will be pernicious and against the best interests of the people of the state. There is too much tinkering with the manner of voting. Every few years some amendment to the election laws complicates the manner of voting and makes it harder for the ordinary voter to comprehend how to vote, and this method, entirely new and different from anything that has previously been used, that would be found so would be unable to vote intelligently until after several elections had been held. Another and one of the strongest reasons why this system should not be adopted, is the fact that it is a monopoly, pure and simple. Monopoly is secured by patent from the United States for this manner of voting. If the law is adopted the secretary of state is directed thereby to enter into a contract with Dunn to use this patented ballot within the limits of the state at general city and judicial elections. No price is set and it is entirely within the option of Mr. Dunn as to what price he shall charge for allowing the state to use this ballot.

Defects Of The Primary. La Crosse Leader-Press: One bad point in the law is particularly glaring. This was pointed out by the Leader-Press Thursday. Reports from many cities show it made itself felt wherever there was a contest on one ticket and not on the others. At Milwaukee, the Rose Press charges that fully 8,000 republicans were cast by stalwart republicans. The Sentinel says that almost the whole 14,000 votes against Bruce, the whole democratic opposition, came from La Follette supporters and republicans. Both statements may be exaggerated but 10,000 or more republicans have voted in the public's caucuses. A law which permits one party to control another is fatally defective. The present primary law encourages this practice, without making the fact known, whereas, under the old system a republican could not vote in a democratic caucus without having the fact known and commented on, and the result shows that the new opportunity was taken advantage of by thousands. This condition, all fair men must

Means Electric Road Will Be Built From This City to Madison Very Soon.

From Madison through Janesville, Beloit and Rockford to Chicago and thence to Cincinnati by trolley and third-rail electric lines with sleeping cars, dining-cars, buffet-cars and all the conveniences of modern travel is the dream of the Cleveland capitalists who yesterday completed the merger of five hundred and forty-one miles of Wisconsin and Illinois interurban lines in one vast twenty-million-dollar combination. Just what this means to Janesville can be clearly understood. It will place this city in close touch with the greatest trolley system in the west and with the proposed line to Milwaukee, a franchise for which was secured last night in Watertown. It will make this city the center of a network of trolley lines that will bring trade to this city. The Mandelbaum syndicate which has recently consummated a $12,500,000 merger of the electric roads about Chicago is back of the present plan.

Exclusive Information
The announcement of this great combination, which will mean so much for Janesville comes as exclusive news from Cleveland to the Chicago Record-Herald and the Gazette. The Janesville-Madison line is named as one of the possibilities of this company; in fact, it is assured in the merger and means that this line will probably be built within the next two years. The special dispatch says:

Among the lines included in the merger, aside from the three embraced in the reorganized Aurora, Elgin and Chicago, are:
Beloit and Rockford and Freeport, Rockford, Beloit and Janesville, Janesville and Madison, Geneva and Freeport, Aurora and DeKalb, Aurora, Plainfield and Joliet, Yorkville and Plano, Carpentersville and Crystal Lake, Freeport and Dubuque.

Ultimately, it is reported, the merger will include the Chicago, Kenosha and Milwaukee-Electric railway, giving more direct connection with northern points.

To the West
With lines already in operation or contracted for the company will reach as far west as Dubuque, Iowa; as far north as Madison, Wis., and it is planned to get into St. Louis within a few years. Working agreements, if not an actual merger with the companies controlling lines from Chicago, through Indianapolis to Cincinnati, which will be in operation this summer, are contemplated, and it is probable that within a year or two through sleeping-cars will be run over all electric lines from Madison to Cincinnati.

Into Chicago
The syndicate already has an entrance into the heart of Chicago over the tracks of the Metropolitan West Side Elevated railroad, and it is said that it will get another when the Northwestern Elevated railroad is extended to Evanston. This will provide for fast time on the electric trains to the suburban towns tributary to the Illinois metropolis.

The Officers
M. J. Mandelbaum of Cleveland is treasurer and H. C. Lang secretary of the reorganized Aurora, Elgin and Chicago, and L. J. Wolf, the old president, remains at the head of the road. These officials and other heavy stockholders from Cleveland have been in Chicago for a week and have made inspection trips over all the lines which have been completed. What arrangements will be made as to through passenger service those controlling the property have not announced.

PRIZE FIGHTING IN Y. M. C. A? WELL, NO!

Milwaukee Managers Write Athletic Club and Letter Is Delivered to J. C. Kline.

Janesville Athletic Club, "Janesville," Wis.

The above address was born by a letter received at the local post office from Milwaukee yesterday. As far as the postal clerks knew there existed no such organization in the city and as customary the epistle was delivered to the place where it would most naturally be meant for. This seemed to be the Y. M. C. A. J. C. Kline, secretary of the Association, opened it but a perusal confirmed in his mind that a mistake had been made. It said in substance: I am managing Jimmy Devine, a young fighter of this place, and learning that you have a few proteges in your town I am seeking a match for him. I will place Devine against any fighter of between 120 and 124 pounds in the west. He has won 21 of the 24 fights he has had and I believe he is worth of meeting any man you may have. The signature was C. C. Salib, Western Union Telegraph Building, 35 Michigan street. Mr. Kline says he believes he knows for whom the missive was meant.

DARLINGTON FLOODS NEARLY SUBSIDED

Trains Get Through from Mineral Point to Janesville—Two Towns Were Isolated.

Darlington flood had... But a few minutes past the schedule time the Mineral Point-Janesville passenger train over the St. Paul road arrived here this morning. This is the first to come from beyond Gratiot since Monday, the line between Gratiot and Mineral Point having been under water and washed out in a number of places. The trouble began Monday afternoon when the rains swelled the Pecatonica river to a height it had not attained for more than ten years. The stream continued to rise and Tuesday morning Darlington residents awoke to find the lower portion of their city under water and their town with Calamine and others entirely isolated. It was necessary to rescue some of the people from their homes by boats. The streets were partly submerged and the principal hotel of the place was sold all day for the cellar was filled and the furnace fires extinguished. To add danger to the conditions the dam at Calamine went out yesterday for a few hours the river at Darlington rose six inches an hour. Toward evening the water began to subside and about midnight the work train of thirty cars loaded with cinders and three with ties was able to reach there and began repairing the damages. Four rods of rails were replaced in the city and numerous other washouts beyond repaired. By the time that the passenger leaves Mineral Point for Janesville each morning the line was fit to run over today and the train came in two sections.

MIGHT HAVE BLOWN UP PUBLIC LIBRARY

Boys "Monkeyed" with Water Valves on Heating Boiler—Flooded the Basement.

Of late the public library authorities have been experiencing annoyances from a coterie of boys, ranging in age from fifteen to twenty. Their wicked custom is to create a disturbance in the reading room, but their other tricks are numerous. The limit was reached recently when one stole into the basement of the building shortly before noon and turned on the valve that allows the city water to flow into the boiler. The deed was not discovered until past twelve o'clock, when the janitor's assistant came to care for the fire. He found the boiler overflowing and the basement floor flooded. Though some damage was done it was lucky that the mischief did not turn the valve letting the water out of the boiler. Had this been done there is no doubt but what an explosion would have followed and the library building have been wrecked with possibly a loss of life.

JOHN L. STILL IS A DRAWING FEATURE

Big Fighter of Days of Yore Pleasing Audiences—Frank Hall's Diamond.

Last night was merely a repetition of Monday night's business at the West Side Theatre. The magic name of John L. Sullivan has drawn hundreds to the west side playhouse and over two hundred were turned away last night, "S. R. O." being the sign displayed long before eight o'clock. When Mr. Sullivan appeared for his act he was loudly applauded and gave even a better talk and exhibition than he did on Monday. One of the drawing cards at the theatre this week is Frank Hall's diamonds. In his necktie he wears a huge carbon that can not fail to attract attention wherever the owner goes. This immense stone has a history and is the third largest diamond in the world owned by a private individual. It was purchased in France in 1883 by Mrs. Hall from a French jeweler, who had purchased it from the Napoleon jewels when they were sold to pay the expenses of the Franco-Prussian war. Mr. Hall has worn it in many European cities and it has attracted world-wide attention. It weighs 39.56 karats and worth in the neighborhood of forty thousand dollars. When Mr. Hall was in Vienna shortly after the purchase of the jewel Emperor Joseph sent for him and in a personal interview offered him more than he had paid for it. Tiffany, the great American jeweler, has also made a standing offer for the gem and others have tried to buy it. Mr. Hall is modest about his stone and its history, but it is safe to say that anyone who has seen him since he arrived here last Monday has noted the stone and commented on its size and beauty. The engagement of Mr. Sullivan closes tonight and he leaves for Rockford tomorrow morning.

— FORTY YEARS AGO —

Jamesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, March 28, 1896.—Messrs. Editors: Charter election is approaching and the time is at hand when one or the other of the political parties must be victorious. Since the last election new and important issues have been forced upon the nation and which threaten to produce serious differences between the great mass of the Union party and a few of its chosen leaders and high office holders. These issues go to the fundamental prerogatives of Congress and the President, and upon the way in which they are settled depend interests of greatest magnitude as well in the far off future as now. Upon one side are to be found the great mass of loyal people of the nation, and upon the other the President and the United States, the rebels of the South, the Copperheads of the North, and a few of those who have hitherto stood in the loyal ranks but have now gone out after the flesh-pots of Egypt. In those States which have held their own town and city elections this spring, the issue has been made upon the difference between Congress and the President, and in almost every instance Congress has almost sustained in the pending election in Connecticut, the same question constitutes the dividing lines between the parties.
These elections are all important, as indicating the present state of public sentiment. They are very important to Congress, for if the people stand with ranks unbroken, Congress will not waver. But let other wise unimportant local elections be carried in favor of the President, the backbone of many of our Congressmen will soon grow weak and the day will be lost. It is in view of these considerations that I desire to say that there is to be and is now making a systematic and vigorous effort to carry the coming charter election in this city in favor of the policy of the President, and it is to be done in this way. Every Johnson man, every war Democrat and every Copperhead who can be whipped in are to attend the caucuses next Friday, secure those organizations, select proper delegates to the city convention, secure committees for the coming year, and put in a domination enough of those who have joined the Johnson party to enable them to claim the result as a triumph for the policy of the President.
Let it be remembered that the City Convention is called to meet the day before election and the result of their action must be acquiesced in, for it will be too late for the people to organize in any other direction. In view of these things and the great importance attached to them, I desire to urge all Republicans to attend those caucuses, and see to it that this Johnson Copperhead scheme is defeated. Let mechanics and other business men spare one hour from their business and thus save the city from the hands of the Johnson men and the Union party from an ignominious and unnecessary defeat.
REPUBLICAN.

TILLMAN TALKS ON CUSSINESS

Says Constitution Is Being Invoked by Lawyers to Prevent Reform.

CITES CASE OF BEEF PACKERS

Too Much Concern for Men Behind Corporations and No Attention to Needs of the Citizens of the Land, Claims South Carolina Senator.

Washington, March 28.—A few aside remarks from Ben Tillman on the "general cussedness of the situation" formed the enlivening feature of the senate Tuesday. The man with the pitchfork found cussedness on every hand—in the insurance disclosures, in the contributions of national banks to campaign committees, in Judge Humphrey's decision in the beef packers case, in the John R. Walsh bank failure at Chicago, and in the "internal solicitude" for the railroads in connection with the legislation congress is trying to enact. The constitution, he opined, is being invoked by too many lawyers to prevent reforms.

There was no particular subject under consideration when the South Carolina senator took the floor, and when Senator Foraker, in the midst of a typical Tillmanesque ramble, rose to a parliamentary inquiry, asking what was before the senate, Senator Tillman exclaimed: "I am!"

"Which is nothing unusual," replied the senator from Ohio.

"Well," said Mr. Tillman, "of you are going to withhold unanimous consent to let me talk, I'll say what I've got to say the very first time any bill comes up, so you might as well let me finish now." And he did.

Makes Attack on Banks.

Primarily, Tillman wanted to remind the senate that he has a resolution pending before the elections committee providing for the investigation of campaign contributions by national banks. He read section 5209 of the revised statutes relating to "embezzlement and misappropriation of funds by bank officials."

"If it can be shown," he said, "that national banks in 1896, and probably since then, have been guilty of disobeying this section and of contributing the funds of the banks to campaign committees, it seems to me there is a clear case of malfeasance in office, which ought to be investigated and the men guilty of this disobedience of law called to account."

The South Carolinian said he had proof he would present to the senate at the proper time that national banks in one city contributed $17,000 to the republican campaign fund in 1896, and he understood that the national banks of Chicago contributed $70,000. The total of such contributions from all cities that year, he declared, amounted to between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Simply as a Reminder.

"It was with a view to calling the senate's attention briefly to these facts," continued Senator Tillman, "that I have thought it worth while to mention the matter in connection with some other things which are transpiring that are of very great general interest and relate particularly to railroad rate regulation, with which the senate is now wrestling."

"For instance, Judge Humphrey the other day rendered a decision in regard to the criminality of officers of certain corporations under which those officers have been invited to put on their hats and leave the court room, and we are told blandly and I suppose authoritatively that that probably will be the end of it, although there is some discussion of the propriety and necessity of an appeal to the Supreme court to see whether that court holds the same view."

"How is the United States to appeal a criminal case?" interjected Senator Lodge.

"That's my trouble," replied Tillman. "I find so much anxiety here to take care of the corporation and so little desire to punish the corporation. Judge Humphrey, one of those immaculate federal judges, has caught that corporation by the nape of the neck, and I am reminded of a cartoon of the subject in which the corporation, a man of straw, is being hauled off to jail, while the flesh and blood corporation man sits on the fence laughing. I am here in the role of attorney for the goose to ask my friend from Wisconsin (Senator Spooner) or some other lawyer to explain why we are so infernally solicitous about taking care of the corporations and only interfering with this man of straw in the legislation we are trying to enact and why we do not pay any attention to the man?" We forget men in the effort to redress grievances and wrongs, almost shedding tears in regard to the possible invasion of the rights of this impersonal creation, but we do not seem to take any concern about the man of blood.

Effect of Cartoons.
"When I see Judge Humphrey turn loose these people—it may be lawful—but the law ought to be changed. Mr. Jerome also has fallen from grace as a reformer. He and a learned judge have a falling out as to the criminality of campaign contributions from the insurance companies. Here we go! The dear people are told that it is unconstitutional to do any other way than the way we are doing; that we are trying our level best to help

Senator Spooner, arising to enlighten on the law of the case, said it was the first time he ever had known a decision of a court to be impeached on the authority of a cartoon, but Tillman declared "cartoons" had wrought many wonderful things.

"Why," said Spooner, "only a few days ago I saw a cartoon in which Senator Tillman was lying sprawling behind his desk, kicked there by a donkey."

"The last one I saw," said Tillman with a bland smile, "had me on the donkey and the elephant was tied to the donkey's tail."

CANNON INDIGNANT

Speaker Breaks Precedent and Replies to Shackelford's Attack.

Washington, March 28.—Breaking all precedents of recent years, Speaker Cannon, thoroughly indignant, demanded recognition on the floor of the house Tuesday to reply to an attack made upon him by Representative Shackelford of Missouri. The house was in committee of the whole, and the speaker was seated in the front row listening to the debate when Mr. Shackelford was given five minutes for a speech, only to resume his denunciation of the speaker, where he was cut short the other day. Republican leaders quickly assembled around the speaker as Shackelford proceeded to explain that Mr. Rhodes (Rep. Mo.) had introduced a bill for the benefit of the Missouri civil war veterans. Looking directly at the speaker, Mr. Shackelford said: "Hear their voice, Mr. Speaker. If you will let the veterans of Missouri have a vote this house will pass their bill. All they ask is that you permit the house to vote. Take your heavy hand off the old soldiers and let my colleague call up this bill." Mr. Speaker, I appeal to you to give back to the people their representative government. When the speaker arose at the conclusion of Mr. Shackelford's remarks and demanded, "Mr. Cannon was shaking with indignation, and everyone expected him to make a reply which would forever silence Mr. Shackelford. 'I have listened,' the speaker said, 'to the gentleman from Missouri. If it afford him consolation to make me a stalking horse on account of his quarrel with the minority leader, well and good.' Mr. Shackelford shouted across the chamber: 'My criticism of the speaker is based on no such foundation.' Here the incident closed, for the time being at least."

CHAPTER XV

NOTWITHSTANDING the excitement of the day, or perhaps because of them, Ann slept soundly. She was awakened as before, by the sound of the little coffee mill, but she did not rise as promptly as on the first morning and was still dozing when Nora appeared with a piece of corn cake and a cup of coffee. "You feel tired this morning, I know. Well, now, take your breakfast in bed."

Ann was conscious of this. "No, no! You poor, dear thing! I am ashamed to have you waiting on me." "It's so little—a mere step or two." "Yes, but you have so many steps. After this I forbid you doing anything of this kind for me, and I've been thinking why can't we hire a Chinaman to work for us? Unless I can do something to relieve you I will not stay. You are tired. I wish you would ask Mr. Raymond to find us a helper today."

"Hello, sis!" shouted Louis. "Aren't you up yet? You'll never make a miner." Here he poked his head in at the door. "Jupiter, wasn't yesterday an exciting day? It makes me sick to think I didn't go down to Bozle with you. Rob has been telling me about Matt's shielding the sheriff. It must have been great. I was out on the hillside. We all thought the sheriff was coming up that way, but he didn't. He turned back and went into camp, and last night Jack went down and pitched into him, and they had a battle."

"They did? Was any one killed?" "Ten." "Nora gasped. "Merciful powers!" "So Perry says. Our side won." "Ann frowned. "Our side? You are not taking sides with these lawless miners?"

Louis wished to sidetrack this discussion. "Our things have come." "Have they? Very well, I'll get up at once and unpack. I want you to help me a little here."

"And I want you to help fix up our bungalow."

"Agreed. Now run away and find a hammer and some tacks."

Together they worked to render her room a little less bleak, and together they crossed the path to Raymond's cabin, where they toiled merrily. Ann was just leaving the bungalow to help Mrs. Kelly with the midday meal when Munro dashed up and flung himself from his horse.

"Good morning, Lady Ann! How fares the day?"

Something unduly presuming in his tone irritated her, and she gave him a glance intended to check and humble him. "I am quite well, thank you."

He was not of those whom disdainful eyes abuse. He hugged himself and shivered comically. "Wow, but that was a cold breeze! Some one must have left the doors down. You're not going to draw the line on me, are you? What do you know against me?"

"I know nothing against you or for you either," she replied.

"She was turning to go when he stopped her, and his tone was hard and dry. "You were in Bozle yesterday with Raymond. Don't do that again. When you want an escort let me know. I'll send a man that knows enough not to take a lady into danger and who has 'savvy' enough to keep his horses for the return trip."

"Thank you. You are very kind, but I'm not in need of additional protection," Ann lightly replied. "Goodbye till tomorrow," he called after her in mockery, his voice as musical as a bugle.

This interview, short as it was, left the girl with the feeling of having been grasped and shaken by a rude hand. And yet her anger was not unmingled with admiration. His magnificent audacity and the grace and dash of his advance interested her.

Raymond saw Munro riding away and wondered what his errand could have been, and when Louis told him that the gambler had stopped and detained Ann in the path his teeth set in anger. "The little hound!" he growled under his breath. "I'll put an end to that!"

Immediately upon finishing his supper he went up the path to Hanley's to find "the lookout." Munro was in his place, sitting high above his faro lay-out, clicking a couple of silver dollars together, talking with grateful intensity to Denver Dan, who stood at his shoulder broadly smiling. The saloon was packed with men, all in high spirits over the precipitate flight of the sheriff.

Munro sighted him at last, and called out: "Hello, Rob! How goes it?" Raymond did not reply till he reached his side. "I want to talk with you, Jack," he said in a low voice.

Munro studied him for a moment, then turned to Dan. "Take my place a minute."

Dan complied, and Raymond led the way into the open air, and when they were well out of the crowd he turned and said:

"You intercepted Miss Rupert today?"

"I met her, yes. What about it?" "Just this. You're not fit to shake the hand of a decent girl, much less a cultured, high bred woman like Ann Rupert, and you know it!"

Munro was staggered. "What business is it of yours?" he asked, with instant anger.

Raymond's wrath was self-contained.

"Keep your temper, Jack. We're outnumbered and outnumbered together, and you can't make any mistakes about what I mean. I know the kind of women you live with and the kind of life you lead, and I tell you to keep away from the Kelly cabin."

Munro did not snarl as Raymond expected. His voice became softly insinuating as he said: "Suppose the lady invited me to call? Suppose she was interested in my conversation? The lady had a chance to go. The path was open, but she clung to me, she smiled."

"You're a liar!"

Munro was now very confident. "Am I? Ask the boy, he saw her talking with me. I say the lady was gracious."

The gambler took on the air of an injured comrade. "Now, see here, Rob, you're away out of limits. I acknowledge I've known a whole lot of cheap women, but that's all the more reason why I should be able to tell when I meet the real thing. Her name is as safe with me as with you. Probably she's tied up back in the states anyway, so that neither of us has any chance of interesting her. But it's an open case and no favors, and so long as she doesn't hand me out the 'icy mitt,' I'm going to make the most of my chance, and from this moment on," he took off his hat. "I reform. I throw up my job, of Hanley's. I cut off booze and I shake 'Baw Claire'."

Raymond was impressed by his rival's manner. "You can quit gambling, and I hope you can leave liquor alone, but I see trouble when you shake Claire. But that doesn't matter. For the sake of old times I want to avoid a quarrel with you, Jack. But I warn you that if Miss Rupert finds your presence disagreeable you go, and you stay. As you say, she is probably engaged to a better man than either of us. But she is here because of the boy, and I feel a certain responsibility for them both, and the man who presumes on a chance acquaintance with her will answer to me."

"All right. Leave it to her, Rob," said Munro almost jocularly. "If she turns me down I'll pull out of my own accord, lightning sure. Good night!"

Raymond walked away with a sense of failure. Munro had adroitly writhed out of his grasp and was probably exulting at his own cleverness. He was troubled, too, by the confident tone which Munro had taken in saying, "The way was open, she lingered."

Out of the tumult of his doubt he emerged with an accession of confidence in himself. "If it comes to a choice between us, my chances are as good as Jack's. Her tolerance of him is due to ignorance of his real character. Mrs. Kelly must tell her."

He saw the light in Kelly's home, and his allurement was stronger than ever before, but he resolutely held his way to his own freedom, there to bitterly muse the entire evening over his poverty and the false position in which Munro had cleverly placed him.

He repeated of his resolute passing of her door when he heard next day that a couple of the independent operators had spent the entire evening with Kelly and that one of them talked a great deal to Ann. The sting of it lay in the fact that Tracy was a fine young fellow, studious and capable. "You are a fool," Raymond said to himself. "You threw away a chance to be happy. Don't do it again."

MURDER AT A CHURCH SOCIAL

One Killed and Five Wounded In Dispute Over Finances.

Bluefield, W. Va., March 28.—Bloodshed and death was the ending of a social at the Methodist Episcopal church at Coaldale, near here Tuesday night. One man was killed instantly, his wife was disfigured by having part of her head torn away with a shotgun and several others received serious bullet wounds. The tragedy grew out of bitter feeling over finances between two factions striving for dominance in the church. The man killed is Benjamin Capely, while his wife, whose head was partly torn away, cannot recover. Mrs. R. H. Harper was wounded in the side and Henry Garden was shot in the leg.

IN STRICT CONFIDENCE. Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health.—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Alice Berryhill.

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only.

Many thousands of cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as she has been.

Mrs. Alice Berryhill, of 313 Boyce Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Three years ago I looked dark to me. I had a morbid and indolent condition of the female organs and was in a serious condition. My health was completely broken down and the doctor told me that if I was not operated upon I would die within six months. I told him I would have no operation but would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He tried to influence me against it but I sent for the medicine that same day and began to use it faithfully. Within five days I felt relief but was not entirely cured until I used it for some time."

"Your medicine is certainly fine. I have induced several friends and neighbors to take it, and I know more than a dozen who had female troubles and who to-day are as well and strong as I am from using your Vegetable Compound."

Just as surely as Mrs. Berryhill was cured, will Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cure every woman suffering from any form of female illness.

If you are sick write Mrs. Pinkham for advice. It is free and always helpful.

THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS

The ingredients that enter into S. S. S. and the method of combining and preparing them so that they build up and strengthen every part of the body, make it the greatest of all tonics. S. S. S. is nature's remedy—PURELY VEGETABLE—and while it is restoring the lost appetite, overcoming that tired, run-down feeling, and other ailments common to Spring, which warn us that it is necessary to take a tonic, it is purifying the blood of all poisons and waste matters so that it can supply to the system the strength and nourishment it needs to keep it in perfect condition during the depressing summer months that are to follow.

Spring is the season when most every one needs a tonic. It is nature's time for renewing and changing; and as everything puts on new life, the sap rises in vegetation, the earth thaws out from its winter freezes, and all respond to Spring's call to purge and purify themselves, there is a great change also takes place in our bodies. The blood endeavors to throw off the poisons, and accumulations which have formed in the system, and been absorbed by it, from the inactive winter life, and calls upon every member to assist in the elimination. The system is often unequal to the struggle, the appetite grows fickle, the energies give way, the spirits are depressed, and a general run-down condition is the result.

Then the body must have assistance—it must be strengthened and aided by a tonic, and S. S. S. is the ideal one. Being made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, it does not disagreeably affect the system in any way as do most of the so-called tonics on the market, which contain Potash or some other harmful mineral ingredient to derange the stomach and digestion, unfavorably affect the bowels, or otherwise damage the health. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion and assists in the assimilation of food; it rids the system of that always-tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and tone to every part of the body. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, stimulates the sluggish organs, and calms the unstrung nerves which make one feel that he is on the verge of prostration. S. S. S. gives an appetite and relish for food that nothing else does, and by its use we can find ourselves with as hearty, hungry an appetite in Spring as at any other season.

It acts more promptly and gives better and more lasting results than any other remedy, and is absolutely safe because of its vegetable purity. Dyspeptic, irritable, nervous, debilitated people will find S. S. S. is just the medicine that is needed for the purification of the blood, which, from its diseased or impure condition, is causing their trouble, as well as for toning up and helping the entire system. When you take your tonic this Spring do not experiment, but get the best—the tonic with forty years of success behind it, and the one endorsed by the best people all over the country—S. S. S., THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS. It is necessary at this time, when the system is depleted and weakened at every point, that the right remedy be used—one that is especially adapted to the condition, and S. S. S. has proved itself to be this remedy for many years. If it is taken at the first sign of Spring the system will be so built up and strengthened that the disagreeable affections of the season will not be felt as warmer weather comes on.

THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS

The ingredients that enter into S. S. S. and the method of combining and preparing them so that they build up and strengthen every part of the body, make it the greatest of all tonics. S. S. S. is nature's remedy—PURELY VEGETABLE—and while it is restoring the lost appetite, overcoming that tired, run-down feeling, and other ailments common to Spring, which warn us that it is necessary to take a tonic, it is purifying the blood of all poisons and waste matters so that it can supply to the system the strength and nourishment it needs to keep it in perfect condition during the depressing summer months that are to follow.

Spring is the season when most every one needs a tonic. It is nature's time for renewing and changing; and as everything puts on new life, the sap rises in vegetation, the earth thaws out from its winter freezes, and all respond to Spring's call to purge and purify themselves, there is a great change also takes place in our bodies. The blood endeavors to throw off the poisons, and accumulations which have formed in the system, and been absorbed by it, from the inactive winter life, and calls upon every member to assist in the elimination. The system is often unequal to the struggle, the appetite grows fickle, the energies give way, the spirits are depressed, and a general run-down condition is the result.

Then the body must have assistance—it must be strengthened and aided by a tonic, and S. S. S. is the ideal one. Being made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, it does not disagreeably affect the system in any way as do most of the so-called tonics on the market, which contain Potash or some other harmful mineral ingredient to derange the stomach and digestion, unfavorably affect the bowels, or otherwise damage the health. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion and assists in the assimilation of food; it rids the system of that always-tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and tone to every part of the body. It re-establishes the healthy circulation of the blood, stimulates the sluggish organs, and calms the unstrung nerves which make one feel that he is on the verge of prostration. S. S. S. gives an appetite and relish for food that nothing else does, and by its use we can find ourselves with as hearty, hungry an appetite in Spring as at any other season.

AN EFFORT TO PULL THROUGH THE DAY. I have used S. S. S. quite extensively and unhesitatingly recommend it as the best blood purifier and tonic made. I am a machinist by trade and at one time my system was so run down that by 10 o'clock every day I would be completely exhausted, and it was with the greatest effort that I could pull through the balance of the day. Since taking S. S. S., however, all this has disappeared. I am a strong, vigorous man, abundantly able to do my day's work, my appetite has been whetted up so that I can eat anything, my sleep is sweet and refreshing, and I know further that it has purified my blood and put it in good condition. I cannot speak too highly of your great remedy, S. S. S. 817 W. Broad St., Columbus, O. A. B. MONTGOMERY.

SHE FOUND IT THE BEST SPRING TONIC. On two occasions I have used S. S. S. in the spring with fine results. I can heartily recommend it as a tonic and blood purifier. I was troubled with headache, indigestion and liver troubles, which all disappeared under the use of S. S. S. My appetite, which was poor, was greatly helped. I can eat anything I want now without fear of indigestion, and my blood has been thoroughly cleansed of all impurities and made rich and strong again. As a tonic and blood purifier it is all you claim for it. 771 E. Main St., Springfield, O. MRS. G. WIEGEL.

THE REFORMATION

Grand Enactment of the Life of Martin Luther.

One Hundred and Fifty in the Cast.

An Historical Entertainment

The story of the reformation on the life and times of Martin Luther will be presented in Myers Grand opera house, Thursday and Friday evenings, April 19 and 20. The entertainment will be under the management of Mrs. H. E. Monroe of Washington, D. C., the author and originator and is to be given under the auspices of the members of the church council of St. Peter's English Lutheran church of this city.

Not less than one hundred and fifty persons are to represent the different characters. Prominent gentlemen and ladies from the various churches and church choirs of Janesville will appear in elegant costumes representing the leading officials of church and state in the sixteenth century.

The evening's entertainment opens with the first church procession which illustrates German theology brought into this country through the Lutheran, the Presbyterian and the Reformed churches, now so intermingled under "the stars and stripes" as to seem indigenous.

This procession is led by seven couples of peasants representing the different Protestant countries of Europe, in the order in which the ideas of the Reformation entered those countries: Germany, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, England, Netherlands, the peasants carrying the flags of the countries they represent. These are followed by gentlemen wearing the colors of Germany and carrying the flag of that country, representing the German states and ladies representing the states of the union.

The third is the most important scene—Luther's great trial at the Diet of Worms. Of this important trial in history Thomas Carlyle says: "It was the most important event in modern times," and of Luther, Southey, while poet laureate of England exclaimed: "Blessed be the day of Martin Luther's birth. It should be celebrated second only to the nativity of Jesus Christ," and Jules Michelet, that great Catholic historian of France designated Luther as the "liberator of modern thought," and Dr. Chalmers: "Luther did more for the success of a mighty cause than any before him had achieved in the history of the world."

Mrs. Monroe spent three years in Germany in preparing this entertainment, visiting the places made memorable by Luther and the Reformation and making research in the great libraries and art galleries for accurate information along this line. She visited Rome, St. Peter's and the Vatican and has excellent views of these, both interior and exterior, which are shown by stereopticon views. While in Rome she with others was received by His Holiness Pope Leo XIII and received his blessing. Mrs. Monroe as an educator and lecturer stands high in the educational world. She had been sent abroad a number of times by the United States government to investigate foreign educational affairs. Her entertainments have been given in all the leading cities east of the Mississippi and often repeated. For instance in the city of Philadelphia this entertainment has been given eleven different times. In that city as many as thirteen ministers have taken part at one time. Rev. Dr. Russell upon one occasion having taken the part of Luther. It has also met with great success in Baltimore and Washington, D. C., where United States senators and representatives as well as ministers, lawyers and judges have taken part.

The evening closes with an allegorical procession—the church militant in which all take part. After a brilliant march, the figure ends with Luther in front with the open Bible, meaning he has conquered the open Bible for the world. The child at his side represents the childhood of the church and the perpetuity of Christianity. Then, with flags flying and swords flashing, the company sings Luther's great hymn, "Ein feste Burg."

"That interesting chapter in the history of the world which tells of Luther's revolt and the birth of the Reformation, was related at Music Hall last night with a nicety of detail, a careful reproduction of costumes and an exact picturing of scenes and events which left little to one's imagination."—Buffalo Evening News.
"Not a dull moment."—Buffalo Express.
"There is nothing in either the lecture or the scenes which should hurt the feelings of any Christian of any denomination."—Pittsburg Commercial-Gazette.

STANDARD OIL PROBE ENDS IN NEW YORK CITY

Case Will Be Presented to Missouri Supreme Court After H. Clay Pierce Is Examined.

New York, March 28.—The Standard Oil inquiry in the actions begun by Attorney General Hadley to put the trust out of business in Missouri was concluded in this state Tuesday. At the conclusion of the morning session at 67 Wall street Mr. Hadley announced to Commissioner Sanborn, who has been taking testimony here under the order of the supreme court of this state, that he would examine no more witnesses in this city.

Mr. Hadley left for St. Louis, where he will take the testimony of H. Clay Pierce, president of the Waters-Pierce company, and one or two other witnesses. The entire testimony then will be submitted to the supreme court of Missouri and upon it Mr. Hadley expects to get a decision revoking the licenses of the Standard Oil company of Indiana and the Republic Oil company of New York and nullifying the charter of the Waters-Pierce company, which is a Missouri corporation.

These three companies, it seems, although ostensibly independent competing concerns, really were controlled and directed by the Standard Oil trust from 26 Broadway. Instead of competing they divided Missouri up into trade territories and the prices at which they sold were fixed by the parent trust in defiance of the anti-trust laws of the state.

THREATENS TO HANG MINISTER

Plea of Guilty of Immoral Conduct Entered Colorado People.

La Junta, Colo., March 28.—Rev. W. Conley Connell, former pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lamar, who is held for trial on a charge of immoral conduct, was safely lodged in jail here after having been hastily removed from Lamar to prevent a lynching. Connell left Lamar hurriedly two weeks ago. He was arrested at Waxahatchie, Tex., and brought back to Lamar. Several hundred men thronged the streets threatening to hang the minister. On being arraigned in court Connell waived examination, acknowledging his guilt. Later, under heavy guard, he was removed in a wagon to Las Animas, where he was placed on board a train and brought to this place.

MURDERER ADMITS HIS GUILT

Man Brought to Justice by Wife's Story Makes No Defense.

Edinburgh, Ill., March 28.—Frank Grant of Allamont, charged with the murder of S. Kirkpatrick at Allamont last July, pleaded guilty. Grant was brought to justice by the confession of his wife. Kirkpatrick was killed by Grant during a drunken row. Grant went to his home near by and forced his wife to accompany him and look at the body. Threats of death forced her to keep the secret until cruel treatment by her husband caused her to tell the story to the officials. Her story was corroborated by her brother, George Kregman, who saw the murder and had kept it secret for his sister's sake.

WOULD JOIN UNITED STATES

Pelee Island People Spring Annexation Question in Canadian House.

Ottawa, Ont., March 28.—The fact that the people living on Pelee Island are clamoring for annexation to the United States was brought out in the house Tuesday when Mr. Clarke of Essex county made a strong plea for an amendment of the coasting laws which will permit United States vessels to call at the island. No Canadian boats touch there now and the people are in a rebellious mood because of the treatment they have been receiving. Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that the coasting laws could not be changed at this time just when Canada was asking the United States for reciprocity in matters affecting coastwise shipping.

Queen Victoria's Cats.

Queen Victoria was a great lover of cats, and when the court moved it was accompanied by a regular caravan of cats. Persian, Manx, Angora, Maltese and tabby cats all traveled in state to Barmoral, Osborne, Windsor or Buckingham palace, as the case might be. One Persian cat, of which the queen was particularly fond, wore around her neck a collar, on which appeared in silver letters the inscription, "I belong to the queen."

Nevada Land Frauds.

San Francisco, Cal., March 28.—Wholesale frauds have developed in connection with the Nevada mineral lands. It is alleged government surveyors filed on many of the best claims of the state which they afterward sold.

Receiver for Decatur Merchant.

Springfield, Ill., March 28.—Judge Humphrey appointed former Congressman Owen Scott of Decatur as receiver for Moses Levin, dry goods dealer of Decatur. Levin's liabilities are $50,000.

A prominent business man of Merrimac, Mass., while attending a horse trot, was accosted by a fakir, who said: "Take a hand." To this the Merrimac man replied, "No, sir; I have only two hands, and I have to keep one on my pocketbook and the other on my watch."

How long will Janesville continue to enjoy high-class theatrical productions presented by the original New York casts if it is unable to fill its theatre for them? That is the question which thinking people who appreciate the opportunity of witnessing the best things the American stage has to offer must have asked themselves last evening between the laughs over the droll sayings and pantomimic woe of Mr. Pipp; the ludicrous poses, gestures, and dialect of Count Charmarot, the courier; the Baron Haussling, and the Duc de la Touraine; and the mirth-provoking experiments of the mighty Mrs. Pipp with the French language.

The play was a charming series of stage pictures, often grouped and posed, seemingly, that the fidelity to the drawings might not be lost. But it was much more than a mere series of stage pictures, a procession of fine costumes and scenery. It was a good comedy. There was much wholesome humor and much more of that kind of humor which just crosses the border-line of pathos. It was not altogether good to laugh at Mr. Pipp. Digby Bell's wonderful character study was infinitely more than the original of the pictures. He was a gentle, genial, rich man—plain, loyal to his friends, submissive to all the ridiculous whims of his exalted wife because of that same exalted deference and respect he entertained for all who were dear to him.

When six or eight outbursts of applause had greeted the close of the second act, Mr. Bell came before the curtain and gave one of the most graceful and finished curtain talks ever heard in this city.

Second only to Mr. Bell's portrayal was W. S. St. Clair's delineation of the bogus French count. It was so true and perfect, so free from any exaggeration, that it made the plot for there was also a plot—seem like something taken from real life. It was William Evans who had the small part of the Precepteur of Police who sent a real thrill through the audience as he laid and executed his plans for the capture of the conspirators in the last act.

Miss Beecher and Miss Luehrman, as the daughters of the Pippis, answered all the preconceptions and propensities of the Gibson girls as to appearance and act acceptably when they are given opportunity to do more than pose. Ann Warrington presents an altogether delightful character in "Lady Viola Fitzmaurice," the gracious and womanly mistress of Carony castle. All the other parts are adequately taken.

The music furnished by Lake's orchestra was exceptionally good. The overture "Bridal Roses," the marches "Happy Heine" and "Men of Yost" were some of the numbers played.

Thieving Cashier Sent to Prison.

Boonville, Ind., March 28.—James McWilliams, defaulting cashier of Lynnville, pleaded guilty to embezzling $4,199 of building and loan association funds, and was sentenced to prison for two to fourteen years, fined $200 and disfranchised for two years.

Butte, Mont., March 28.—Fire in the Olson block resulted in $100,000 damage to the wholesale stock of the Passmore Paper company. The Olson block suffered a loss of about $3,000, while the damage to the building was $20,000.

SENATOR KNOX ON RAILROAD RATE BILL

provide for or recognize a review; that this bill itself as presented in both houses and as originally prepared by the interstate commerce commission contained a provision for review and that the President in his message speaks of the orders being subject to review when we consider all these facts, the action of those who are willing to imperil the validity and effectiveness of this law by not explicitly providing for a review for no valid reason whatever, is to me incomprehensible.

In closing Mr. Knox said this great subject should be discussed and considered in a spirit of sincerity and courage; that it would be a reproach to all the lawyers of the senate "if for each of intellectual integrity, for want of courage, because of expediency—for any reason short of absolute conviction—we should urge this bill, or sitting silent, should suppose permit it to become law although believing it to be unconstitutional and illegal and unjust on any ground."

CANADA FIGHTING CONSUMPTION

Meeting of Eminent Men Opened At Ottawa Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Ottawa, Ont., March 28.—Physicians, public health officers and bacteriologists from many parts of the dominion have come to this city to attend the sixth annual meeting of the Canadian association for the prevention of consumption, which opened today in the railway committee room of the house of commons. A wide range of subjects for discussion, touching the prevention and treatment of tuberculosis, has been prepared. This evening the chair will be occupied by His Excellency Earl Grey and Dr. Arthur J. Richer, of Montreal, will deliver an illustrated lecture showing the stages of consumption and some of the appliances now in use to check the disease.

New Jersey's Trial.

Washington, D. C., March 28.—This is the date set for the trial trip of the new battleship New Jersey over the Rockland (Me.) course. Her builders and officers say she is as fit as a race horse. Although no speed premium depends upon her work today the rivalry between the Fore River company and the older shipbuilders insures her being pushed to the limit of her possible speed. The New Jersey is a sister ship of the Nebraska and the Rhode Island, of 14,348 tons and 19,000 horsepower.

Postpone Bill.

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—The insurance bill postponing the mutual insurance elections until November 15 was passed by the senate unanimously today.

Word Is Overworked.

Doubtless the most over-worked word in the English language conversationally, is the word "proposition." Once you begin to notice it, it gets on your nerves. Some people can't talk thirty seconds without using it. A friend of ours used it twenty times in the course of two minutes' talk. It is maddening. Stop it! A little picturesque conversation goes a great way.—Chicago News.

Wealth in Old Hotel Structure.

In altering an old hotel in New York city it has been found that the beams, floor boards and woodwork are of solid mahogany. The structure would prove a perfect mine of wealth if it could be razed, but the owner refuses to allow this to be done under any circumstances.

Chinese Amazons.

Women in China have the privilege of fighting in the wars. In the rebellion of 1850 women did as much fighting as the men. At Nankin, in 1853, 500,000 women, from various parts of the country were formed into brigades of 13,000 each, under female officers. Of these soldiers, 10,000 were picked women, drilled and garrisoned in the city.
